About this report

Data included in this report is based on the results of your organization's last full review cycle (completed second round of review) as of December 31, 2023. The data reflects all locations subscribed by your organization to WELL at scale. Achievements reflect historical totals, which may include expired milestones.

Benchmarking data for people impacted, portfolio size, and concept averages is based on all WELL at scale participants, while benchmarking for the WELL Score, if applicable, is based on all participants with a WELL Score. WELL concept averages are based on the arithmetic mean number of points achieved within each WELL concept at all locations subscribed by WELL at scale participants. The maximum number of points that can be achieved at a location within each concept is 12.

For more information on WELL, including regarding WELL concepts and associated feature points, see the WELL Building Standard (WELL Standard).

Moving the market, leading the way

This last year continued to reinforce the importance of human health and the power of resilience and connection. IWBI's 2023 State of Workforce Well-Being Poll, conducted by the Harris Poll, found that 96% of employees agree that a healthy work environment is necessary for employee productivity.

Healthy buildings have become a strategic imperative for organizations worldwide, not only helping support and sustain employee health and well-being, but also driving improved economic performance. According to the research, by helping boost productivity and reduce symptoms associated with sickness, these strategies have the potential to yield massive, economy-wide financial gains. High-performing organizations are finding that investing in the health and well-being of their people - through interventions focused on the physical environment, corporate policy, inclusive design or operations - helps drive economic returns.

Organizations like yours are using WELL as a roadmap to rise to the occasion with strength, optimism and determination.

{{1}}'s commitment to health and well-being is reflective of your dedication to helping people thrive. We've seen a great deal of new research highlighting the many benefits of investing in the health of your people. Thank you for your leadership and trusting IWBI as your partner in putting people first. This report offers a moment to reflect on all you accomplished with WELL in 2023.

Accelerate your ESG strategy

Increasingly, investors, regulators and organizations are weighing non-financial performance indicators as they look to better understand risk and uncover growth opportunities. There are risks and opportunities associated with systemic issues such as climate change, shifting consumer preferences, workforce shortages, evolving societal expectations and regulations. As companies and their investors are increasingly impacted by these issues, they are also increasingly motivated to address them.

In recent years, there has been increased focus on the social pillar of ESG, and on social sustainability as a standalone focus. WELL provides a roadmap for your organization to put your people at the center of your ESG strategy and can be used as a tool to enhance ESG reporting. WELL can both guide action and help your organization demonstrate its impact on the physical, mental and social well-being of employees and other stakeholders. As health continues to take center stage, celebrate your WELL achievements and the incredible strides you've made towards the health of both your people and your organization.

IWBI has completed internal reviews of the following frameworks, finding alignment as illustrated below.

The WELL Conference and global event series

In 2024, we are generating new energy, growing together and acting with impetus to invigorate the healthy building movement. We are reigniting our commitment to communities and continuing our work to help leading organizations create buildings and businesses where everyone can thrive. The WELL 2024 global event series is an opportunity for our ever-expanding WELL community to come together, expand perspectives and strengthen their knowledge of people-first places.

Grow with us

This past year has given us all a sense of gratitude for how far we've come and an excitement for what's ahead. Our 2023 WELL Summit in Washington, D.C., saw the largest convening of our WELL community to date. The event included unique networking and technical education opportunities and showcased the latest in products and services supporting the healthy building industry, while prioritizing attendee health with curated wellness activities and outdoor programming. We've seen monumental growth – nearly five billion square feet of space are enrolled, rated or certified with WELL offerings, and we see this upward trend continuing in 2024.

We launched Works with WELL, creating a pathway that connects health-focused solutions to the WELL Standard. The Works with WELL licensing program is an opportunity for manufacturers to capitalize on the growing demand for health solutions by demonstrating how their products align with WELL.

With our Investing in Health Pays Back campaign, we showcased the business case for healthy buildings around the world. IWBI's Research Review summarized the major findings from nearly 60 independent studies, including research led by Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Harvard's T.H. Chan School of Public Health, and many more.

Highlights from the report include:

- Research that tied higher ventilation rates to an 8% uptick in employee performance.
- A new peer-reviewed study that connected WELL
   Certification to a 28% improvement in overall satisfaction with the workplace.
- Numerous case studies, including one that demonstrated a 300% return on investment for workplace wellness programs.

Now is the time to renew and recharge our commitment to growth and improvement. We encourage you to use what you've accomplished so far to fuel your endeavors for creating a healthier, more sustainable future. Let's continue this journey together.
